DEDICATION

In Loving Memory of Paul C. Nelson

There are many great men to whom we give praise
For deeds they've encountered each year,
There are others whose battles of life they have won
With valor so loyal and so dear.

There are men of great wisdom to whom we may go
For help and advice we desire,
As a man with knowledge and kindness supreme,
Your cooperative spirit we've admired.

We'll miss your bright smile as we go 'long life's road,
Your ability to do things right,
We'll miss your presence where'er we go
Each morning, noon, and night.

To the teacher of man we bid thee farewell,
But your memory remains in our heart;
God has bid you come home and help Him, too,
For you've always done more than your part.

by George Soderberg

ALMA MATER

On the banks of Lake Menomin,
Stands our Alma Mater true
With Tower high and brilliant 'S'
For her we'll dare and do
We'll sing her praises many
We'll glorify her name
And on thro' out the years of time
Our love for Stout proclaim.

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

June 1, 1947

To the Class of '47
The Stout Institute

Another school year draws to a close and another class of Stout graduates goes forth to face the challenge of the world. In the laboratories and classrooms of the college, they have perfected many skills and have gained much knowledge. Equipped with these tools, they are now ready to pass on to their fellowmen the priceless gift of education.

The Stout Institute in our post-war world is constantly striving to better serve both those persons desiring a specialized education and those school systems seeking highly-trained, competent personnel. This year Stout had an enrollment of over 800, the highest in its history. If the expected influx of new students materializes according to expectation, by 1950 we shall have built up an enrollment of over 1200.

To members of the faculty and older alumni, these changes have a definite significance. But to you members of the Class of '47 who may read this message, these future improvements may at first glance seem to have little bearing on you, as persons soon to be leaving the Stout campus. Let me assure you, however, that there is a significance, both a personal and a professional significance, in all progress which The Stout Institute may achieve.

In the personal sense, the constant improvement of Stout means for you increased pride in your Alma Mater and increased value for that diploma which is now yours. In the broad sense, Stout's progress will be another valuable addition to the ever-improving facilities which American education needs that it may better guide all mankind to honor and to peace.

Yes, the Class of '47 goes forth to become part of a world of challenge and opportunity for service. May its members return frequently to this campus to bring us the wisdom of their experiences and may they, wherever they may go, be ever worthy members of a proud and diligent profession.

Sincerely yours,

Verna C. Fryklund

CLYDE A. BOWMAN

Dean of Industrial Education

Mr. Bowman became Dean of Industrial Education in 1919. Executive, teacher, and writer, Clyde A. Bowman is a recognized leader among teachers of industrial education. Mr. Bowman was the first and only Dean of Industrial Education at The Stout Institute. He is a friend to and respected by all students, both old and new.

MERLE M. PRICE

Dean of Men

Dean Price has studied at the University of Minnesota and also at the State Teachers college at St. Cloud, Minnesota. His valuable teaching and administrative experiences have proven their worth in his position as Dean of Men.

It has been his responsibility to find housing facilities for the men attending school here and because of this the Veterans of Stout have come to know him very well. His efforts to find them housing has proven to them that he is very efficient to this position. He can also be given credit for the development of our student union, which has been one of the outstanding advancements this year toward a better well rounded student activity program.

RUTH E. MICHAELS

Dean of Home Economics

Dean Michaels did her undergraduate study at Milwaukee State Teachers College, The Stout Institute, and the University of Chicago. She holds a M.S. degree from Columbia University. During her stay at Stout she contributed to the development of Home Economics in the secondary schools and also in her work as chairman of the Home Economics curriculum committee. The Home Economics Division of the college has undergone many improvements and innovations while Dean Michaels has been in charge. Always a friend and counselor of the women enrolled in Stout's Home Economics Division, Dean Michaels' interest in campus activities is shown in her faithfulness and ability which she has displayed discharging the numerous duties and responsibilities of her position.

The students, faculty, and administration of Stout, having known Dean Michaels as a competent specialist in the educational field and as a person of dignity and charm, regret her leaving and we all know that The Stout Institute is now a better institution of learning for her having been a member of its faculty.

KETURAH ANTRIM

Dean of Women

Miss Antrim was appointed Dean of Women in 1945. Through her work with women's athletic and social groups, Dean Antrim has gained the respect of the women of the college. Among other duties, Miss Antrim has charge of Women's housing problems. This year she has given many valuable hours to make the student union a success.

Woodworking Department

Woodworking courses from the beginning of The Stout Institute have been included in the curriculum. Through the years, many changes have been made in the department both in location and curriculum. A continual study of trends and requirements will also bring many changes in the future.

Metalworking Department

The shops represent opportunities for work with metal, machine tools, sheet metal, bench metal, oxy-acetylene welding, electric arc welding, forging, and heat treating. Mastery in the use of tools and skills to forge the implements of industry are developed in the shops of the division of metalworking.

Graphic Arts Department

The relation of drawing to other industrial courses was seen by Mr. Stout when he was setting up his plans for the school, but because of limitations in money and facilities as well as a small enrollment, a single course in mechanical drawing was incorporated into the curriculum. However, with the enlargement of facilities more drawing courses were introduced. At present some sixteen courses are offered.

Whereas drawing has been a part of Stout since the school's conception, its related art, printing, has only been taught since 1906.

Electricity and General Mechanics Department

The many developments in the fields of electricity and mechanics have made the subjects increasingly important. In the laboratories and lecture rooms, principles of industrial electricity and mechanics are studied and demonstrated to give students greater knowledge of motors and machines which play a great part in the world of today.

Foods and Nutrition Department

Courses in foods and nutrition are correlated with work in other classes, such as biology, physiology, and chemistry. The objectives of this department are the planning, purchasing, preparation, and serving of nutritious food in an appetizing manner. As freshmen and sophomores, the students do basic work in nutrition and in food preparation. During their junior and senior years, students may elect courses meeting their individual needs and interests.

Clothing Department

Clothing courses include more than learning to sew a fine seam. In the first year work is begun by studying clothing selection and construction. In the second year, each student is required to take an advanced clothing course. Other work is elective and may include courses in applied dress design, children's clothing, clothing economics, clothing problems, or history of clothing.

Art Department

When Stout was in its infancy, Interior Decoration and Artistic Home Furnishings were the titles given to the courses which included work in art. Today the art courses are correlated with other home economics work, too. In the first year students are taught the principles of art in their relation to the home and home furnishings. Advanced art work is offered in classes in creative art, crafts, sketch and art history.

Education Department

The department of education deals with subjects related to the teaching skills. It serves to educate the prospective teacher in the science of understanding and fulfilling their future students needs. It is this department that contributes a vital link in the teacher's background, by supplying him with subjects that are vital to his resources as a teacher. This department, along with the other departments of the school has helped to establish the name of The Stout Institute as a well known dependable teachers training institution.

English Department

The duty of the English department is to instill a knowledge of grammar, the ability to write correctly, and a love of literature in the minds of a technically minded student body. The primary aim of the speech courses is to teach the students to speak well before any group. Requirements for graduation include thirteen credits of English courses. Many students also enter elective courses: drama, poetry and fiction, thus completing a minor in English.

Physical Education Department

It was Mr. Stout's desire to build the bodies as well as the minds of the students. In accordance with his belief of healthy bodies as well as educated minds, most students participate in physical activities. In the spring and fall students may take part in outdoor activities such as golf, tennis, field hockey, archery, and baseball. During the winter months the activities include swimming, badminton, bowling, volleyball, and basketball.

Science and Mathematics Department

Mathematics and science courses were early incorporated into the curriculum of Stout to serve as a necessary background in the many technical subjects offered. Very few women take courses in mathematics, but both men and women are enrolled in the science courses. However, students may work for a minor in either field and many are qualified to teach either science or mathematics.

MERLE M. PRICE

STEPHEN A. STEPHAN

Social Science Department

Through social science courses students seek an understanding of the complex conditions characteristic of today. It was not until Stout Institute became a state institution, that social science was added to the curriculum. Courses in economics, sociology, history, government, family, and society give the student the background to understand American political, social, and economic life.

Harold R. Cooke

Music Department

The music department at The Stout Institute began with an orchestra, a band, a men's glee club and a male quartet. From these extra-curricular activities have developed credit courses in harmony, music appreciation, conducting, band, orchestra, and choral groups. Under the direction of Mr. Cooke, students received instructions in techniques in ear training, rhythm notation, diatonic and chromatic scales, chord instruction, and acoustics.

RAY A. WIGEN

STUART ANDERSON

Graduate School Department

Graduate work was carried on exclusively during the summer sessions until the second semester of the 1945-46 college year when the first regular session of graduate courses began.

Students who hold the degree of Bachelor of Science from The Stout Institute or its equivalent, are eligible to take graduate courses. The graduate curriculum is planned so prospective teachers and administrators may earn the degree of Master of Science with a major in Industrial Education, Home Economics Education, or Vocational Education.

Business Staff

The purpose of the business staff is to see that the clerical, medical, and literary components of the school, attain the utmost efficiency possible in the fulfillment of their duties at Stout. The clerical branch in general, accounts for all of the correspondence and office duties of the school. The medical branch includes all of the work related to keeping the students healthy. And the literary branch includes all of the work in connection with the library and its duties. These three branches compose another important department at The Stout Institute. Among the duties of the registrar are supervision of the many problems involved in admissions and credits, as well as aiding in senior placement in the fields relating to Industrial Arts and Home Economics.

The Senior Class, as its part in making homecoming a success, decorated the Home Economics corridor and built a small "log cabin" registration booth to carry out the theme "Welcome Back with the Lumber Jack."

The seniors worked on various committees under the auspices of the S.S.A. to plan and sponsor all-school activities.

Being a wartime class of small membership, all the seniors were happy at the return of the many veterans who joined the class this year.

The Graduate Men's Club functions as the class organization for the Graduate Division. The activation of the club was concurrent with the establishment of the Graduate Division at the beginning of the Fall term of this year. Previously the only formal organization of graduate men had been during the summer sessions since 1935. The purposes of the club are expressed by: good fellowship and professionalization in Industrial Education. At intervals during the school year, discussions, talks by visiting speakers and movies held the attention of the members. Membership in the Graduate Men's Club has two prerequisites: interest and enrollment in the Graduate Division.

Remember homecoming of 1946? It certainly was like "old times" to have the fellows and alumni back on the campus again. The junior class helped to make homecoming a big success by decorating the "barn" and making it into a "dance hall dream" for the annual all-school and alumni dance.

May 17 was a big date too. Remember? The date is passed, but our memories connected with decoration, program, chaperones, and refreshments will live forever. Memories of homecoming, spring formal, and the many other activities surely have made this year a pleasant one to put in our book of memories.

As members of the decorating committee, the sophomores contributed to the success of homecoming by providing a well-decorated town.

In keeping with the Christmas spirit, we were also called upon to decorate the gym for the annual Christmas dance. The gay tidings of the holiday was expressed in decorations of evergreen boughs and a colorfully-decorated Christmas tree.

During second semester, two members were elected to the Student Governing Board. We celebrated the conclusion of an active year with the traditional class picnic.

Here we are — the freshmen. After final tabulation in September we numbered 390, the largest class in the history of The Stout Institute. Our first task was that one given to all freshman classes at this college. Yes, we built the homecoming bonfire. This bonfire — 42 feet in height — was, in the opinion of many, the largest in the history of Stout. During the second semester, we made our way into the social life of the college. We played host at several basketball hops and presented a Mardi Gras Masquerade Ball. In making a name for ourselves, we have achieved goals towards which future classes may well strive. Although we would like to remain in the limelight, we hope that future classes will shatter these records, for, by doing so, they will create a better Stout.

Stout Student Association

The Stout Student Association is an organization whose primary purpose is to encourage a spirit of school cooperation and to secure for the students a definite responsible voice in student affairs. Four student executives are elected each spring to represent the student body before the administration.

The main activities of the S. S. A. this year was the organizing and establishing the student government and installation of new college and dorm regulations. Among the social functions sponsored by S. S. A. were the Senior Frolic, The Christmas Dance, The Open House at the gym, and Homecoming which was said to be the best in years.

Tau Chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron, a national professional home economics fraternity, endeavors to promote the professional and social growth of the home economics students of The Stout Institute. To carry out these aims they have edited a spring and fall newsletter, which is sent to all alumni and have had a number of speakers who have talked about various phases of home economics. In order to finance their chapter, they have sold ice cream bars at the dormitories during exam week and at basketball games. They also sponsored an open meeting for all home economics students. Phi U also extends its professional activities by sending textile boxes to home economics teachers of Wisconsin.

The M.A.P. Chapter of Alpha Psi Omega started out the year by presenting the very successful performances of "Her Master's Voice" at homecoming. The play not only provided entertainment for many students and alumni, but also gave interested students the opportunity to earn part of the required points for admittance into the fraternity.

The highlight of the year's activities was attendance at Maurice Evans' production of "Hamlet."

The threefold purpose of the fraternity members is: developing an appreciation for drama, attaining skill in the act of impersonation, and providing training which may serve as a preparation for future activity in amateur production.

This group of K.F.S. men symbolizes the objectives of the organization in the letters of their fraternity: K, for knowledge; F, for friendship; and S, for society. Its aims are to improve social relationships at Stout and to build sincere friendships, as evidence of this, the K.F.S. has entered actively into the social program of the year.

The K.F.S. is now entering its second decade of providing fellowship for its members and contributing to the social life at Stout.

Notable features of the year included: winning a first for the Homecoming Float, a first in the F.O.B. Stunt Night Program, and sponsorship of the annual K.F.S. Dinner Dance, revived after a war-lapse of four years.

Phi Omega Beta is the oldest men's organization at Stout, taking an active interest in all school activities and showing a major interest in athletics. High-lighting the F.O.B. sponsored all-school activities for the year were the "Duffy's Tavern Dance," the all-school "Stunt Night," and "The Melodies of Spring" — the semi-formal which opened the spring social season.

Pledges, wearing their traditional derbies and bow ties, have announced to the school their entrance into the organization, a delegation of derby-clad members assuring support at social functions.

A relatively new organization on the Stout Campus, Sigma has given contributions to college life in the past year. Sigma, leading the way in support of the college union, contributed substantially to furnishings for that project which the whole school now enjoys. The Annual "Tacky Drag" sponsored by Sigma has already been made a tradition in Stout's social life, and the one this year was indeed memorable. From a chapter membership of sixteen in 1944, Sigma has grown into a working organization of twenty-five, with many alumni in the field. The principal aim of Sigma is to promote social and educational life in the college and in the lives of the fraternity members.

The beginning of the second semester marked the beginning of a new men's social organization, Phalanx. Aims of the organization are to promote a feeling of brotherhood and fraternal unity between the members and to provide service to the school. Phalanx opened its social program with a smoker in February. With its weekly supper meetings and frequent week end activities climaxed by a dinner dance in May, Phalanx continued to enliven the program of extra-curricular activities. With its excellent foundation, Phalanx should continue to expand and assume its place among the traditional organizations of Stout.

INTERSOCIETY COUNCIL

Existing as the governing body of the four women's societies, the Intersociety Council is composed of the president and secretary of each society, together with the four advisers and dean of women. On the first Thursday of every month, they meet to discuss rules and such school events which the organizations sponsor, such as the stocking foot dance, the gale winter Intersociety Ball in December, and two Intersociety rushing parties for all freshmen women — a new procedure at Stout. By seeing that the society affairs run smoothly and by keeping all four societies in close friendly contact with each other, the Intersociety Council had proved to be a valuable organization.

Amid the bustle of another year, the Pallas Athene Society took an active part in sponsoring various school functions. Beginning the year's activities, fifteen pledges were formally initiated at the La Pointe home. The traditional Serenade added a cheery note to bleak October. Our president was Homecoming Queen. Highlighting the winter season was the all-school Snow Brawl, held in January. Traditionally, the annual Easter sale offered many varieties of handicraft and cookies made by each of the members. Informal dinners marked such special events of Thanksgiving, Christmas, mid-year graduation, Founder's Day. A senior dinner climaxed the year's activities.

Signs of S.M.A. activity are always present around the campus. The S.M.A.'s have quite a reputation for tradition, originality, and black dresses. The highlights of its activities are Sadie Hawkins' week, including the Valentine tea — lovely as ever — the corridor sale and the "Dog-Patch" dance which climaxed the week's affairs.

The cottage party was a grand success, despite sunburns and improvised sleeping facilities. In those two days almost anything can happen, and usually does.

The S.M.A. has done a great deal as a group this year — morning hikes, a hayride, social gathering, dinners at the Anchor, and greatest of all, the dinner dance.

The Philomatheans began their social activities early in September by sponsoring the Philo Phrolix, an evening of dancing and entertainment which followed the festivities of the first football game. The Philo alumni breakfast at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church made Homecoming a memorable weekend. Teas and social meetings contributed to the active school year. Spring pledging ceremonies climaxed a most memorable year.

The year's full schedule for the Hyperians was begun early last fall when seventeen pledges were initiated into the society. When Homecoming-time arrived, the Hyperians worked hard on the float, which for the second consecutive time, received the honor of being "most humorous." At a traditional breakfast they welcomed the alumnae to the Homecoming festivities and heard about the various occupations and adventures of these former students.

During the year, members sold Stout stickers, Junior Bazaar Magazine subscriptions, and Christmas cards to boost their finances. With the coming of spring, the Hyperians sponsored a St. Patrick's Day dance as well as the traditional "Old Heidelberg" tea.

The International Relations Club, which is open to all who are interested in international problems, meets monthly to discuss current topics in world events. MR. BAKER

The Stoutonia has come a long way since it was first published March 17, 1915. Today, more than ever before, the Stoutonia holds a prominent position as the voice of the student body. To it falls the responsibility of recording news, features, editorials, and correspondence, which may be of interest to the student body, faculty, alumni, and other readers.

In this first post-war year, the Stoutonia staff, under the editorship of James Bailey, points with journalistic pride to its accomplishments of the year in advancing its standards of journalism in a laboratory school where no journalism is offered.

Membership on the staff offers many opportunities for a student to gain valuable experience that conforms to good journalistic principles and practices.

THE COLLEGE CHOIR

The College Choir has been newly organized this year and trains both men and women in developing better tone quality and voice control. This choir has proven successful in the fact that it eliminates the men's and women's glee clubs of previous years. This group contributed greatly to the success of the annual Christmas concert. Among its other activities this year has been the singing of hymns in church services in Menomonie.

The campus sister movement was introduced to the new students through letters from the big sisters and the get-acquainted tea in September. We served coffee and doughnuts at the first open house to follow the homecoming football game. Sunrise services followed by a breakfast were held at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter. In helping others less fortunate, generous Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets were filled, and gifts were sent to a children's home. Destitute college students of other nations were aided through the World Student Service Fund drive. College Day of Prayer was observed with the other church organizations. A Mother-Daughter banquet and the senior picnic climaxed our major activities of the year.

The Stout Arts and Crafts Club is comprised of student and faculty members who are interested in hobby and craft work. Each member has an opportunity to work with any craft medium in which he is interested. Through its activities, the Arts and Crafts Club promotes the worthy use of leisure time and gives its members an opportunity to learn about the organization and functions of craft clubs.

This year marks the first time in the organization's history that its membership has been extended to the division of Home Economics. Organized in 1931, the club now has a total of 35 resident members.

The Rifle Club is the youngest organization on the campus; however, in reality it is a revival of the once very active Rifle Club officially disbanded in 1937.

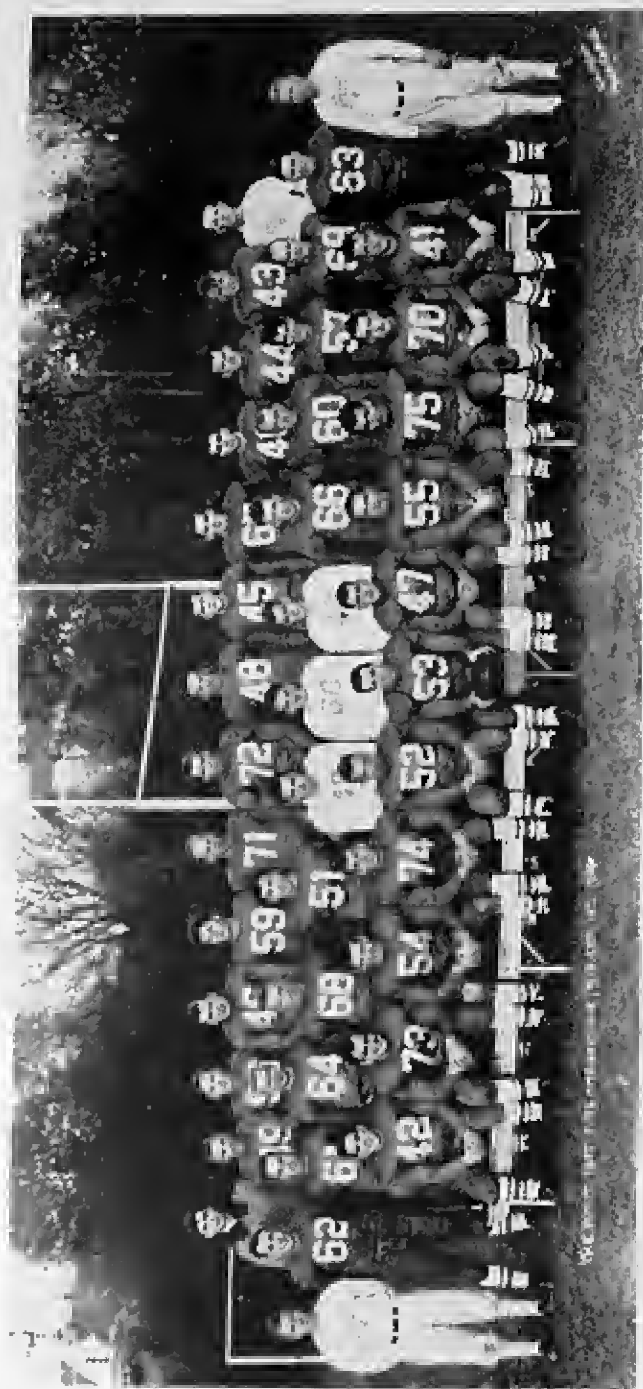

The object of the organization is the encouragement of organized rifle and pistol shooting among citizens of the United States, residents in our community and students of Stout, with a view towards a better knowledge of the safe handling and proper care of firearms, as well as improved marksmanship and those characteristics of honesty, good fellowship, self discipline, team plan and self reliance. The Rifle Club is affiliated as a Class A Club with The National Rifle Association.

With the opening of a new school year each fall it is synonymous to think of football and the type of team which will be produced. Most successful seasons are measured in wins and loses of the team from the spectators' viewpoint, but if we look at the coach's viewpoint, he measures the success of his team by the improvement they show from game to game.

At the start of last season the outlook for a successful season at Stout was very dark. As the season progressed a marked degree of improvement was noted in each game and the peak of performance was attained in the Homecoming game. Stout entered the game a decided underdog and by playing alert football emerged from the game victors with just reasons for being proud of their victory.

The coaching staff of head coach, Ray C. Johnson, and his assistant head line coach, K. C. Wennerberg, and assistant line coach, J. B. Shultis, feel that a successful season was completed by the team when they could see their coaching technique being evidenced by the team's showing in the opening game and the progress to the season's closing game.

SENIOR LETTERMEN:

William Andrews—A four year letterman whose home is in Superior, Wisconsin. He was the captain of the team in his senior year and made all conference selection in his junior and senior years at Stout. Andrews was a versatile player who served at all positions equally well and considered the season successful if Stout could beat Superior.

ALL CONFERENCE MEN:

Andrews, William—Senior—back—Superior, Wisconsin

Hammerberg, Wallace—Sophomore—tackle—New London, Wisconsin

Wyzkowski, Chester—freshman—end—Wausau, Wisconsin

Young, Robert—freshman—halfback—Wausau, Wisconsin

Row One: Robert McKay, Donald Bream, Raymond Wenzel, Donald Grunsted, Captain, Harland Hesselman, William Peterson, Joe Serflek, William Young.
Row Two: Coach Ray C. Johnson, Robert Young, Chester Wydoski, Jennine Larsen, Robert Witcomb.

THE BASKETBALL TEAM

The Stout basketball team had trouble finding the range in the early part of the season; as mid-season rolled around there was nothing to stop them, and they came down the home stretch in a blaze of glory to take second place honors in the Northern Division Teachers College Conference.

In non-conference play The Blue Devils handed defeats to such highly rated teams as Winona (65-43), St. Mary's (42-40), Oshkosh (48-45), Carleton (47-44), and St. Cloud (51-47). They went in defeat to Hamline (41-61), Milwaukee (43-45), and St. Johns (50-52).

In conference play the Johnson men got off to a bad start losing to River Falls (37-56) and Eau Claire (37-41). Hesselman and Company then proceeded to get down to business, and finished the season winning five more games and losing one. The record for the season was 10 wins against 6 losses.

The highlights of the season were: The Blue Devils' savage attacks against River Falls (63-46), Eau Claire (77-44), and La Crosse (74-53). Individual scoring honors went to Captain Harley Hesselman with a total of 216 points. Don Grunsted and Ray Wenzel followed with 155 and 153 points respectively.

Four seniors ended their Stout basketball careers. They were Harley Hesselman, Don Grunsted, Bill Peterson, and Joe Serflek.

CHEER LEADERS

This year cheer leaders were selected by the S.S.A. officers and a faculty advisor. Those elected from the competitive try-out in the fall led the rooting section at pep assemblies and at games for the remainder of the year. At the end of two years' service, a cheer leader may receive a letter. Jeanne Gonsolin and Harold Richter were the only members to receive a "S" this year.

During the year, Jeanne Gonsolin, Wilma Loomans, Jeanne Sand, and Ray Duane led the cheers for our Alma Mater with the aid of Lucille Benzel, Harold Richter, and Gerald Styer throughout the football season. One of their most commendable achievements was awakening a sportsman-like attitude among the fans and students who attended our athletic events.

COACH JOHNSON, MR. PRICE

Only those men who have earned their major "S" are eligible for membership in the "S" Club. This organization, which today is the leading athletic club in The Stout Institute, was organized during the Homecoming of 1930. The objectives set up by the club at that time and still recognized today are to build and encourage better college spirit, to give recognition to lettermen of the college, and to provide a means by which Stout athletes can retain the friendships they have made while in college.

The Women's Athletic Association of The Stout Institute has for its chief aim promoting active participation of the women students in recreational activities.

In September, the W.A.A. entertained all freshman girls with a Scavenger Hunt.

For the second year, an inter-collegiate basketball game was played here as the feature event of sports night. The opponent was the River Falls W.A.A.

Sale of hot dogs and ice cream sandwiches at the football games helped to establish funds for the different events of the year.
